London bombings continue:

LONDON -- A bomb exploded near a high-security police station Saturday morning, and the outlawed Irish Republican Army told authorities to expect more.

The bombing, the seventh in the city in four days, blew apart a telephone booth outside Paddington Green police station, where terrorist suspects are questioned.

A 23-year-old man was treated for minor head injuries at St. Mary's Hospital. "He was blown off his feet by the force of the blast. He hit his head as he went down," hospital spokesman Mike Blakemore said.

The man, whose name was not released, was the seventh person hurt since the wave of bombings began Wednesday.

Meanwhile in Belfast, police said two IRA gunmen killed an off-duty officer in a crowded downtown bar Saturday. Jim Douglas, 50, of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, was the 67th person and the second police officer to die in sectarian violence in Northern Ireland this year.

The attacks in Britain and elsewhere are intended to pressure the government to relinquish control of Northern Ireland, and the IRA said more bombings were to come.

Trustees: Centralize education? Heck no

by Julie Tagliaferro administration reporter

The University Board of Trustees approved a resolution Friday to voice their concerns to the Ohio Board of Regents about two aspects of the Managing for the Future Task Force report.

The report, created by the Ohio Board of Regents, makes recommendations that would alter the existing structure of higher education.

Trustee member Thomas Noe said the board thought the report contained some "very fruitful things, things we feel are very important" that would benefit state universities.

However, Noe said the board was very concerned with the report's proposed idea of centralizing control of higher education. They also oppose the proposal to designate Ohio State and Cincinnati as the state's only two comprehensive research centers.

According to the resolution presented by Noe, the board believes centralization could lead to control "in a cumbersome bureaucracy with less accountability to local, regional and institutional needs."

On the issue of the two research centers, the resolution states that if there are only two designated research facilities, efficient competitiveness between the various state universities would be reduced.

"We believe that the Task Force report must be considered a starting point for debate and refinement, not a finished agenda for administrative and legislative implementation," Noe stated on the board's behalf.

University President Paul Olscamp said he hoped more people would familiarize themselves with the aspects of the report.

"I hope that the general public will take a greater interest in the recommendations of this report," Olscamp said. "[The recom-

Graduate Student Senate holds off deciding on ROTC

by Jeni Bond
student government reporter

Graduate Student Senate voted Friday to table a bill requesting the University terminate affiliation with the ROTC program because of discriminatory policies against homosexuals.

The bill, if passed, would request the University to neither issue credits for ROTC classes nor honor ROTC scholarships for incoming students, according to Alex Teodosio, GSS welfare coordinator.

"The bill will in no way or manner affect or impact those ROTC students who are currently enrolled in ROTC, or on scholarship," Teodosio said.

In addition to requesting defilement with ROTC, the bill also calls for the relocation of ROTC to an off-campus location until discriminatory policies are discontinued, Teodosio said.

Jim Settle, representative at large, said the bill is necessary because the student code states that discrimination will not be tolerated in the academic community.

"The University contradicts itself by saying discrimination is allowed in some cases," Settle said. "There is a large portion of the student population which are being discriminated against by the ROTC program."

Clark Cummings, GSS senator, said the bill addresses an issue which is extremely serious and needs to be resolved.

"It isn't a spur-of-the-moment type thing," Cummings said. "The bill is important because ROTC's policies are unfair."

GSS has a direct interest in ROTC's policies, according to Teodosio.

African melting pot boiling over

GEORGETOWN, Guyana -- The rich racial stew of this South American country often is cited as a point of pride. But it boiled over into Election Day rioting earlier this week.

"We live as one," insisted Brahma Prasad, the East Indian owner of a downtown movie theater, the Strand, patronized mostly by blacks. "You find all kinds of Guyanese living together with no trouble."

Prasad, 31, spoke amid more than a dozen black and East Indian companions, lounging in the shade of one of Georgetown's countless dilapidated wooden houses.

A teen-ager of mixed Amerindian and Portuguese blood and a longhaired Rastafarian were among the group sipping vodka. Many nodded solemnly in agreement with Prasad's assessment.

But within minutes a loud political argument was raging, with one East Indian crowing over victory in the elections.

"You've had 28 years to rule,"

Tension increasing over diversity between racial groups in Guyana

Rohit Budhoo, 39, shouted at the blacks. "Now it's our turn."

A block away from the discussion, on commercial Regent Street, the mostly East Indian stores were closed up tight. Fresh plywood covered the many display windows shattered on Election Day by a mostly black mob.

At week's end the tension appeared to be easing but shop owners were still too fearful to open up for business.

Monday's vote was racially charged, with East Indians backing Cheddi Jagan and the country's blacks, descended from African slaves, supporting President Desmond Hoyte. Hoyte conceded his party's defeat Wednesday.

Like most of his supporters, Jagan is descended from East Indian indentured servants imported to cut sugar cane. They make up about 51 percent of the population. He received 54 percent of the vote.

Hoyte, whose party has ruled since 1964, is black like about 40 percent of the Guyanese. He received 41.4 percent of the vote -- and later remarked on how closely the ballots followed racial lines.

The rest of the vote went to several small parties. Guyana, a Kansas-sized nation of 750,000 on South America's northeastern jungle, shares with the Caribbean countries a dizzying mix of races.

Onion-domed mosques and Anglican steeples elbow stretch to the sky along with the palm trees and broad Dutch-style wooden homes on stilts. People of different races also live side-by-side, often in apparent harmony. Blacks, Indians and others commonly work and socialize together, and intermarriages are frequent.

But a strong identification with ethnic origin persists, as does degree of racial resentment.

Blacks monopolized political power and the civil service for decades, and charges of discrimination against East Indians are often heard. Yet over the years, the East Indians have fared better in private business and run most of the private agriculture and trade. Blacks make up most of the country's truly poor.

In the 1960s political battling sparked widespread and bloody racial strife. But most Guyanese would like to believe with Monday's elections, declared by foreign observers to be free and fair, they've averted a repetition of violence at that level.

"We want to put aside racial issues," said Floyd Welcome, 31-year-old black. "If we keep looking at that, we'll never achieve real living."

American Indians run to rediscover heritage

by William Cormier
The Associated Press

TEOTIHUACAN, Mexico -- Five hundred Indian runners, one for each year since Columbus landed, sped over the last dusty miles Saturday of a 14,000-mile run billed as a "voyage of rediscovery."

Some 230 runners set out in May from Alaska and 270 others from Peru in August. The North American group arrived at midday before the ancient Aztec pyramids of Teotihuacan, a crossroads of the Americas.

"There have been very hard days -- through mountains, deserts and jungles -- but the long, hard road is coming to an end in our voyage to rediscover our common heritage," said spokesman Jose Cosmares.

The runners, arriving across cactus scrubland, said they were seeking to instill pride in indigenous peoples and defend the Indian viewpoint that Christopher Columbus was more destroyer than discoverer.

"We are here to restore our culture, to honor those who fought for indigenous rights," said Gustavo Gutierrez, a 60-year-old Opatia Indian from Arizona who led the first group of runners to Teotihuacan.

"Indians believe Columbus was the first invader and we are speaking out to correct history," he said. "The Europeans built temples atop our temples, they stole our land and left us marginalized. But we are still here."

University cadets second in Black Swamp Challenge

by Todd Kleisml
volunteer reporter

The defending ROTC regional Ranger Challenge champions slipped a bit this weekend after University cadets finished second in the Black Swamp Challenge, held at the Wood County Fairgrounds.

The competition pitted University cadets against teams from Xavier University, the University of Dayton and the University of Toledo. Xavier finished in first place; Dayton and Toledo tied for third.

Xavier and Bowling Green were neck-and-neck going into the final of seven events, a 10-kilometer road march. Xavier's win, however, failed to rattle the confidence of the University cadets who remain confident of repeating as regional champs.

The teams next move on to the brigade-level competition where they must finish among the top four schools to move up to the ROTC regionals.

The cadets will compete against 18 teams at the brigade level later this month. If the team moves on to regionals, they will face 104 teams from several different states. The brigade-level competition will be Oct. 30-31.

"We're using this competition as a learning experience because we've got some new guys," said team captain Cadet Nelson Kraft, junior criminal justice major. "This was just a learning experience to get all the kinks and everything worked out. By the time we get to brigade we'll be ready to win."

"You've got to be dedicated. You get burnt out real quick. But if you stick with it, it pays off in the end."

Most of the events the cadets competed in Saturday and Sunday were basic soldiering tasks such as M-16 firing, hand grenade tossing, weapons assembly, orienteering and a road march. The challenge also included a simulated team rope river crossing and a physical fitness test.

Teamwork and a lot of preparation are essential to the cadets' success in the events, explained Lt. Col. Ronald Hover, Black Swamp battalion commander.

"Everything is team-scored," Hover continued. "It's a team-work thing all the way through."

Cadet Jeff Kirby, junior business administration major, explained that preparation for the Ranger Challenge began this summer when he and Kraft made up training schedules for their nine-member team. The team has trained two hours every morning since the beginning of the school year.

"You've got to be dedicated," Kirby said. "You get burnt out real quick. Sometimes you just get so sick of getting up every morning at 5:30 to come in and do [physical training]. But if you stick with it, it pays off in the end."

Hover said his cadets were satisfied with their performance in the Black Swamp Challenge simply because it gave them some idea of where they stand on the each of the events. He said for right now, they just want to get to the regional competition. After they do that, then they can concentrate more on playing king of the hill.

mentations] are very important and they have local consequences of an extreme nature."

The trustees also approved the revised general fee which will take effect as of spring 1993. They also voted in favor of the proposed fees for the summer academic session, the budgets of the fieldhouse and of intramural club sports.

The fee will increase by $25 per semester -- from $275 to $300. The increase in the fee will help cover the cost of the fieldhouse, according to Lester Barber, secretary of the board.

Allen White, chairman of Faculty Senate, addressed the board voicing faculty concern about future cuts reductions and "erosion of their salaries and benefits."

"[Faculty members] are concerned that certain programs are on a 'hit list' for political and budgetary reasons rather than for academic reasons," White said.

Olskamp expressed concern to White over his statement about the hit list.

"I was absolutely unaware of any such hit list," Olskamp said, adding there has been no attempt by the administration to eliminate any benefits for faculty.

John Mahaney, chairman of the Board of Trustees, told White the board would try to "protect the integrity" of all faculty and staff of the University.

"Let [the board] reassure you, Dr. White, that we will allow nobody to hold our faculty hostage," Mahaney said.

In other business, the board approved a proposal to execute the sale of Wood Cable TV to Wood Television Corporation Fanch Cablevision of Indiana.

The trustees also voted in favor of an improvement fund to fix two walls outside of Harshman and Kreischer Quadrangles.

The trustees also approved a proposal to change the logo currently on all official University documents to the University seal.

The board presented Olskamp with an award honoring him for his 10 years of service as University president.

Faceoff: the first debate is done

by Matthew A. Daneman
Insider editor

If money doesn't make the world go 'round, evidence couldn't be found at Sunday night's Presidential debate.

Broadcast live from Washington University in St. Louis, the three candidates who would be president of the United States squared off in the first of three scheduled presidential debates. While not the first topic on the docket of questions, virtually all responses led back to the one issue foremost in the campaign - the economy.

News Analysis Ross Perot set the stage and the tone for the night on the question of experience. "They have a point," Perot quipped. "I don't have any experience in running up a $4 trillion deficit."

From there, the candidates all moved to their philosophical corners, each working to differentiate himself from the others. On the question of the economy, George Bush and Bill Clinton spent some amount of time on the offensive toward each other's policies and philosophies. Clinton called for a greater tax burden on the rich and decried the falling financial fortunes of the middle class. Bush disagreed.

"You hear the cries of 'Soak the rich,' 'Soak the rich,' but it always ends up being the poor cab-driver or working man who foots the bill," Bush responded. "The federal government doesn't tax too little. It spends too much."

Perot took a hard-nosed, no-nonsense approach to the question, sounding alarm for what he called "a ticking time bomb" and defending his proposed tax increases.

"We cannot pay off the $4 trillion debt, balance the budget and get the jobs of the future without the revenue," he explained.

Even the question of "What is a family?" became an opportunity to talk of matters financial. Bush talked of getting tough on deadbeat fathers, while Clinton took the populist road.

"I've seen the family values of people killing themselves working more out there for less," Clinton said. "They deserve a strong economy."

An ABC News focus group of undecided voters polled after the debate fell overwhelmingly into the Perot camp. With a constant reminder of the dangers of the federal debt, Perot - who previously had come under fire as a candidate without a concrete message - went a long way to destroy that image.

Leftist lesbian for senator?

Socialist candidate seeks Ohio election

by Katherine Rizzo
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON -- Martha Grevatt is nothing like the other two candidates running for the Senate in Ohio.

John Glenn, the incumbent, reflects the middle of the Democratic Party spectrum. Challenger Mike DeWine, Ohio's lieutenant governor, is a Republican conservative who generally supports the policies of President Bush.

Grevatt's politics are far, far left. She's a Socialist.

The 35-year-old Chrysler Corp. autoworker believes the right to work is more important than a company's right to turn a profit.

"I don't believe in the legitimacy of the capitalist system," she said from Cleveland, where she lives. "I believe it's a system that is based on the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer."

Grevatt (pronounced greh-vat') also is a lesbian.

All of that sets her apart from Glenn and DeWine. But being different hasn't generated much publicity for her.

Grevatt says she doesn't get attention because she's not seen as having a chance of winning, and she won't win votes if she doesn't get attention.

"There have been two small news articles that we know of and three radio interviews," she said. "Polls conducted by the newspapers around the state are not mentioning my name."

The League of Women Voters said independent candidates can be included in its debate if they have an active campaign and produce a credible poll showing support among at least 15 percent of those surveyed.

Neither Glenn nor DeWine has offered to include Grevatt in their debates.

Glenn said he has shared past debate stages with multiple candidates, including Workers World Party candidates.

"I don't mind debating anybody," he said. "I leave all that up to whoever's the sponsor of the debate."

DeWine wouldn't answer directly when asked how he felt about including Grevatt.

"Our concern is to get John Glenn in a debate," he said.

DeWine's staff said DeWine's position is to let the debate sponsors decide how many candidates to include.

Grevatt's complaints show the quandary of independent and minor-party candidates in a two-party system - and the quandary groups such as the League of

WASHINGTON -- The platform of Martha Grevatt, Socialist candidate for the U.S. Senate in Ohio:

-Abolish military spending.

-Nationalize the pharmaceutical industry.

-Higher welfare benefits with no restrictions.

-A $10-an-hour minimum wage.

-Jobs. She believes everyone who wants to work should have a job, and companies should not be allowed to stop producing unprofitable products if it means layoffs.

-Abortion. She is for eliminating all restrictions.

-Gay rights, including a repeal of state sodomy laws.

Women Voters face when they decide how to treat candidates most people have never heard of.

"Everyone's entitled to go out and run for office. We encourage participation," said Marilyn Shearer, Ohio's league president. However, she added, "you have to have some standards."

Shearer refused to explain how the 15 percent threshold was chosen.

Grevatt said she wouldn't get 15 percent support in a statewide poll. She said that doesn't change the fact she is on the ballot as a candidate.

"My feeling is that qualifies me to receive the same treatment that a Democrat or a Republican candidate would receive," she said.

Clinton's health brought into question

The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. -- Bill Clinton said Saturday he's in "excellent health" and he'll have his campaign put out more details on his medical background.

Clinton, responding to a New York Times story that said he hadn't been very forthcoming about his health, noted his doctors had released brief letters months ago attesting to his good health.

"But as Election Day draws near, I believe it is necessary to provide more details," Clinton said in a statement.

The Times said Clinton had prohibited his principal doctor from talking to reporters and that the Democratic nominee refused to be interviewed about the subject.

Clinton said it had been a "glitch" that the Times hadn't gotten the information it wanted. He said he believes "the American people must be assured that candidates for the presidency are physically sound."

In June, The Associated Press requested access to all of Clinton's medical records. His campaign provided letters from three doctors, each two paragraphs long. Campaign aide Betsey Wright said at the time no further information would be provided because the candidate had a right to privacy.

Spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said the campaign would provide more detailed reports on Clinton's health in the next few days.

University alum speaks to College Republicans, endorses Bush ticket

by Michael Zawacki
staff reporter

The University's College Republicans proved it is possible for a BG grad to get a good job when they sponsored a luncheon for Charles Hilty, assistant secretary for administration at the U.S. Department of Agriculture and University alumnus, at Kaufman's restaurant Friday.

Hilty graduated from the University in 1960 with a bachelor of science in journalism and went on to hold editorial positions at the Bluffton (Ohio) News from 1956-67, the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph (Illinois) from 1967-73 and was the night wire editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch from 1973-78.

Hilty served as administrative assistant to Illinois Congressman Edward Madigan from 1978-84 and then served as minority staff director of the House Committee on Agriculture from 1983-91 before joining the USDA.

When Hilty was asked how he felt being back in Bowling Green he said, "Cold, but other than that I'm delighted."

He said he saw an invitation from the College Republicans to President Bush and Vice President Quayle at the campaign headquarters and since he is asked to take speaking assignments, decided to visit the University.

"This is my college," Hilty said. "I figured [the College Republicans] would like to talk to a BG graduate who is an active Republican."

As well as the speaking engagement, Hilty also had the pleasure of attending the Kappa Sigma 45th anniversary.

Hilty said though he works more closely with the secretary of agriculture and with the senior members of Congress, his personal impressions of the president are of a healthy, vibrant, lively and friendly man.

"[President Bush] represents a better choice for the broader spectrum of American society," he said.

Hilty said President Bush has had a positive impact on the farm community of Northwest Ohio as well as all over America.

"This area is very successful for agriculture," Hilty said. "Historically [this area] has some of the richest soil in this agricultural state."

Even though Hilty did not live on a farm, he grew up in a small town with open fields just past his backyard.

"You might say I have a rural background," Hilty said.

Elvis is alive! according to museum

WRIGHT CITY, Mo.-- In his white, jeweled gabardine jumpsuit, gold-rimmed sunglasses and dress shoes, Bill Beeny paced the Elvis Funeral Room like an expectant father.

The casket was in place. A funeral arrangement of artificial blue carnations shaped like a guitar leaned on a wire support. A potpourri machine steamed with what Beeny called "funeral parlor odor" as "The Old Rugged Cross" played.

"We've got the sound, the smell and the sights," said the 66-year-old real estate developer on the eve of last month's grand opening of his Elvis Is Alive Museum, about 50 miles west of St. Louis.

All that was missing was Elvis' head in the casket.

"It'll be here," he said. "I picked it up yesterday from a mannequin shop in St. Louis. We've even got a professional Elvis wig imported from France. The art teacher at the high school and the middle school is putting the eyelashes and eyebrows on it."

The museum is a single-story building meant to fuel the debate over whether the king of rock'n'roll did, in fact, die Aug. 16, 1977.

Beeny said he's sure Presley is alive and probably under federal protection because of his work as a drug agent.

Beeny's enterprise, however, has come under scrutiny from the Presley estate. Beeny was told by an attorney for Graceland they would not license his operation and he must close it or face the possibility of court action.

Todd Morgan, communications director for Graceland, said, "Any commercial venture using the name, image or likeness of Mr. Presley has to be licensed through Elvis Presley Enterprises."

Of Beeny's museum, he said, "It's not the kind of thing we'd want to license. We have turned this over to our licensing and legal people, and they'll be following it up in due course."

Beeny said he planned to stay open until a court ordered him to close.

"A lot of graduate students interested in the program may not be able to join because of these policies," Teodosio said. "The bill makes a statement of how GSS feels about current discrimination policies of ROTC."

The bill, which will be debated at the Oct. 23 meeting, was tabled because many senators were confronted with the bill for the first time Friday, according to Jack Zibluk, GSS representative at large.

"I would like [the senators] to research the issue and talk to their constituents," Zibluk said. "We need to make informed decisions, and I want to give this the best hearing possible."

The Department of Defense code that ROTC follows states no one of gay, lesbian or bisexual orientation can enroll or take part in the military program.

BG withstands Bobcat charge

Strong defense spells victory for BG in 31-14 win over Ohio.

Tim Norman/The BG News

BG's Ronnie Redd celebrates with teammates after catching a touchdown pass from quarterback Erik White in the first quarter of Saturday's game. The Falcons held the Bobcats scoreless in the second half to secure the 31-14 victory. BG remains in first place in the conference with a 3-0 record.

Falcons slap Bobcats 31-14

by Erik Pupillo
assistant sports editor

In the course of a football game, a team sometimes has to be slapped in the face to get motivated.

In the first half of Saturday's game, Ohio University's defense slapped Bowling Green and the Falcons decided to slap back.

And how they slapped back.

After losing a 14-0 lead in the second quarter when Bobcat linebacker Scott Zele returned an Erik White interception 37 yards to tie the score at 14 all, BG raised its game to a higher level to bury OU 31-14.

"Our kids fought back after a couple of early mistakes and we got that interception that turned the game around for us," OU coach Tom Lichtenberg said. "I thought we'd come out with fire in our eyes, but we came out flat."

"Erik White took them 80 yards. He had just thrown an interception and he could have thrown in the towel, but he picked them up and took them all the way back ... give BG's offense some credit because that was a sign of maturity."

Before the Falcons had to suck it up and put the Bobcats away, they had everything going their way.

The BG defense came out early and set the tone of the game when defensive tackle Bob Dudley stripped tailback Wayne Clements of the ball and nose-tackle Clint Frazier fell on it for a BG recovery on the OU 20 yard line.

The Falcons wasted no time as White hooked up with sophomore split end Ronnie Redd who split the Bobcats' safeties to catch a seven yard touchdown on a slant pattern.

After an OU possession that chewed up a lot of yards but amounted to no points, the Falcons drove the ball 80 yards in 10 plays, scoring on a 17 yard touchdown run by tailback Zeb Jackson.

But the Bobcats refused to lie down and play dead. Helped out by a roughing the kicker, a roughing the passer and a pass interference call, OU was able to score their first touchdown in its last 14 quarters of play on a two yard touchdown pass from quarterback D.R. Robinson to tight end Brian Jepson.

Then the Bobcat defense decided to get in the game when White was blindsided by linebacker Dwayne Cox and Zele was able to cradle in the White pass for a 37 yard interception return for a touchdown.

"I thought we had great emotion in the first quarter when we were up two touchdowns and maybe we thought this would be easy and they would quit," coach Gary Blackney said. "It doesn't matter who you're playing -- they're competitive Division I athletes with a lot of pride in themselves and their team."

"No one is going to roll over and play dead for us ... thank goodness our offense can score quickly like they did."

And it was BG's offense that first responded to the challenge.

White drove the Falcons 80 yards on three plays, taking just 41 seconds off the game clock when reserve tailback George Johnson ran a draw play 25 yards for the go-ahead and eventual game winning touchdown.

The drive was highlighted by a 45 yard Mark Szlachic catch-and-run to put BG in good field position for the Johnson TD scamper with time running out in the first half of play.

"Szlachic isn't necessarily all that fast, but he runs real precise routes and was able to make the big catches," Lichtenberg said.

The Falcons went into the locker room only leading 21-14, but according to linebacker Artie Mangham, Coach Blackney issued the defense a challenge.

"Coach raised the roof a little bit at halftime and I think we came out in the second half and got the job done," Mangham said. "It was a matter of us eliminating the little mistakes."

Mangham and the rest of the BG defense came out into the second half and shut out the Bobcats while chasing Robinson all over the field, registering six sacks.

"The defensive line and Artie did a great job of stopping the run which forced them to go to the pass and I don't think they felt comfortable doing that," outside linebacker/defensive end Kevin O'Brien said.

BG sacked Robinson six times for losses of 56 yards. O'Brien led the sack crew with three while Mangham had two and defensive tackle Jeff Rottinghaus chipped in another.

"That Artie Mangham is a man blitzing through the middle and I'm sure D.R. will be seeing him in his dreams," Lichtenberg said. "He'll also see No. 48 [O'Brien] ... they got after us and physically whipped on us."

While the defense was whipping up on OU, fullback Leroy Smith and kicker Brian Lever rounded out the Falcon scoring. Smith punched the ball over from 6 yards out and Lever connected on a 29 yard field goal.

"We played the No. 1 team in the conference," Lichtenberg said. "They should have beaten Ohio State. I don't know if they should have beaten Wisconsin, but they've beaten everybody else. They have a lot of maturity and they have a lot of guys who know how to win."

"We didn't play Our Lady of the Poor today. We played a good football team."

Triner guides BG to third place

by Andy Dugan
sports writer

Cheri Triner won her fifth consecutive race in leading the women's cross country team to a third place finish at the All Ohio Championships in Delaware, Ohio, on Friday.

The undefeated Triner won the event with a new best time of 17:46 for the 3.1 mile course.

"Despite a bad cold, Cheri ran away from the competition during the last mile. With the exception of Ohio State, Cheri has now run against and defeated all Ohio collegiate runners," said women's coach Steve Price.

Ohio University won the meet with 53 points, followed by Kent with 87 points. BG took third with 107 points and Toledo was fourth with 173 points. There were 32 teams at the meet.

Despite a third place finish, Price noted that some runners had exceptional runs.

"Suzanne Isco and Jen Frahn had their best races of the season and are improving. Tracey Losi was the second best freshman at the meet, however I feel Tracey is nowhere near her potential. One of these days she'll run with the best in Ohio and you can count on that," said Price.

Other women placers were: Tracey Losi, 14th with a time of 18:53; Suzanne Isco, 23rd with 19:07; Jen Frahn, 31st with 19:30; and Jill Strawser, 38th with 19:45. There were 221 finishers.

The women will travel to Kalamazoo, Mich., this Saturday to run in the Western Michigan Invitational. Price stated his excitement for the upcoming meet.

"This Saturday we travel to Kalamazoo for a showdown with Western Michigan, who beat us in Chicago last week. We look forward to the opportunity of beating the bronco gals on their own turf," said Price. "We'll be ready."

The 5K (3.1 miles) race begins at 12 p.m.

The men's cross country team ran to a fifth place finish Friday at the All Ohio Championships in Delaware, OH.

Malone won the meet with 46 points, followed by Cleveland State's 86 points. Miami was third with 92 points with Cincinnati in fourth with 144 points. BG was fifth with 153 points.

Other MAC schools were: Kent, sixth place with 184 points; Ohio University, eighth with 209 points; Toledo, 10th with 342 points; and Akron, 17th with 448 points. There were 37 teams overall.

"We ran better," said men's coach Sid Sink. "We're heading in the right direction. The best we could have done, under the circumstances, was place no higher than fourth."

Sink had the runners try starting their race at a slower pace in order to avoid the crash-and-burn result that has plagued the team throughout the season. With this in mind, Sink stated he didn't expect the team to win.

"The best we could have done, under the circumstances, was place no higher than fourth," Sink said. "We did exactly what we wanted, except I think we ran too slow the first mile. We can go out 10 seconds faster and not have it hurt us. We ran the best race of the season from the first mile on."

Miami's Fred Kieser won the five mile race with a time of 25:13. BG's Eddie Nicholson placed first for BG and 12th overall with a time of 26:15. His top 12 finish earned him All-Ohio honors.

Other placers for the men were: Brad Schaser, 25th with 26:33; Shawn Howard, 30th with 26:43; Deric Kenne, 35th with 26:48; and Scott Kelly, 51st with 27:04.

The men will travel to Ann Arbor, MI on Sunday to run in the Michigan Invitational. The 8K (5 miles) run will start at 10:45.

Arkansas shocks Tennessee 25-24

The Associated Press

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Todd Wright kicked a 41-yard field goal with two seconds left Saturday to give Arkansas the biggest upset of the season, a 25-24 win over previously unbeaten No. 4 Tennessee.

Wright's kick and Orlando Watters' 71-yard punt return rallied Arkansas from an eight-point deficit with less than three minutes to play.

The Razorbacks (2-4 overall, 2-2 in the Southeastern Conference) trailed 24-16 when they forced the Volunteers (5-1, 3-1) to punt. Watters returned the kick 71 yards for a TD with 2:28 remaining, but Arkansas quarterback Barry Lunney Jr. was sacked on a 2-point conversion attempt and the Vols held a 24-22 lead.

The Razorbacks' Darwin Ireland then recovered Wright's on-side kick at the Arkansas 48 with 2:27 left.

Lunney, a true freshman making his first start, calmly drove the Razorbacks to the Volunteer 24 and Wright, after waiting through three timeouts, nailed the winning kick.

The key play came on third-and-16 from the Razorback 42. Lunney fired a high pass over the middle and Tracy Caldwell made a brilliant leaping catch for the first down at the Vol 36.

Falcon defense stymies OU attack in 2nd half

by Glen Lubbert
sports editor

Defensively, everything went right for the Bowling Green football team during the second half of its 31-14 victory over Ohio University.

But it was the defense that was worrying head coach Gary Blackney as the Falcons headed into the locker room with a marginal 21-14 half-time lead. That's when he set a challenge for his defensive squad that eventually kept the Bobcats scoreless in the second half.

"I think coach issued a challenge to the defensive unit at halftime and it was just a matter of whether we're going to get it done or not," inside linebacker Artie Mangham said. "We came out in the second half to show them we're a good defensive unit. It was a matter of us eliminating the little mistakes."

It was Mangham along with outside linebacker Kevin O'Brien who led the Falcons' defensive stand. O'Brien had five unassisted tackles including three sacks for a loss of 32 yards. Mangham totalled 16 tackles, two sacks and left a definite impression on the Bobcats' quarterback, D.R. Robinson.

"That big ol' number five, Artie Mangham, he's a man coming through there after you," Bobcat head coach Tom Lichtenberg said. "I'm sure D.R. will see him in his dreams. They got some good football players ... physical, they whipped on us."

The Falcon defense was able to turn things around in the second half, shifting the momentum away from OU who was able to put a big enough scare in the hearts of the BG squad.

"I personally thought ... we'd come out with fire in our eyes and ready to go," Lichtenberg said. "We came out flat. You've got to give them some credit."

BG was able to limit the Bobcats' total offense to 192 yards on 79 plays, 150 of which came during the first half.

"I was really pleased with our defensive effort," Blackney said. "I thought in the first half, we kind of played on the line a scrimmage a little bit and gave their quarterback a little too much time. At halftime I mentioned to our rush people that we need to get up the field and apply more pressure. That's exactly what they did. They put pressure on the Robinson kid, and to me that was the difference in our play from the first half to the second half."

Despite having the ball for almost nine minutes more than the Falcons, OU was unable to convert anything in the way of points. During the first half BG held the ball for just over nine minutes while the Bobcats ate up the clock with almost 21 minutes of possession time.

"In the first half, we tried to run a couple of stunts, and they didn't work real well," O'Brien said. "In the second half we didn't call as many stunts and just rushed them straight up. I think, in the first half we had a little let down because ... we were up 14-0. Our defensive line did a heck of a job."

On third-down conversions, BG was able to limit the Bobcats to just six in 19 situations. Robinson was ineffective, passing for just 86 yards with 10 completions on 27 attempts. On the ground, OU wasn't much more successful gaining 106 yards on 52 carries compared to the Falcons' 200 yards. The Bobcats lost 65 yards rushing.

Redskins clip Central 16-13

The Associated Press

OXFORD, Ohio -- Deland McCullough ran two yards for a touchdown on Miami's first possession, then scored on a seven-yard pass from Neil Dougherty with 29 seconds to play as the Redskins rallied to beat Central Michigan 16-13 in a Mid-American Conference game Saturday.

MuCullough finished with 102 on 25 carries for Miami (3-2-1, 2-1). It was his third 100-plus-yard game of the season in the four games he's played.

Chad Seitz kicked a 30-yard field goal in the second quarter to give Miami a 10-0 halftime lead.

Central Michigan scored on a 10-yard pass from Joe Youngblood to Shane Sieracki with 6:15 left, then capitalized on an interception by Chad Murphy to take a 13-10 lead with 3:01 to play as Terrance McMillan took a nine-yard touchdown pass from Youngblood.

The loss evened Central Michigan's record at 3-3 and 2-2.

Miami linebacker Curt McMillan had 20 tackles to go over the 500 mark for his career. It was his 25th consecutive game with 10 or more tackles.

Disaster strikes CMU's McMillan

The Associated Press

OXFORD, Ohio -- Terrance McMillan had the game of his college career Saturday. But he'll remember it instead as the day his stepbrother was shot to death.

McMillan, a redshirt freshman flanker for Central Michigan, caught a school-record 12 passes for 116 yards in the Chippewas' 16-13 loss to Miami of Ohio. His touchdown catch with 3:01 left to play nearly won the game.

After the game, McMillan learned his stepbrother, Brian Mannie, 24, had been shot to death early Saturday in Saginaw, Mich. No one was in custody late Saturday, police said.

"This game didn't mean a thing," said Chippewas coach Herb Deromedi, who kept McMillan off-limits to the press after the game.

"It's just too bad we didn't win the game for him," said quarterback Joe Youngblood, who threw a 9-yard touchdown pass to McMillan. "He just broke a record and then he's told this. It's terrible."

Saginaw police responding to a disturbance at 3:08 a.m. Saturday found Mannie had been shot several times in the upper body, Sgt. Larry Wagner said. Mannie died shortly after arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

Investigators were looking for an ex-girlfriend of Mannie's, Wagner said.

Illinois outlasts OSU

by Rusty Miller
AP sports writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio -- Jeff Arneson returned a fumble 96 yards for a touchdown and Illinois twice forced turnovers near its own goal line as the Illini beat No. 21 Ohio State 18-16 in the Big Ten on Saturday.

Tim Williams, who kicked three field goals, missed a 44-yarder with 53 seconds left as Ohio State (3-2 overall, 0-2 Big Ten) lost for the fifth year in a row to Illinois.

Despite a high snap from center that almost sailed over the head of holder John Wright, Chris Richardson kicked a 21-yard field goal with 4:56 remaining that ended a two-game losing streak for Illinois (3-2, 1-1).

After taking the opening kickoff, Ohio State drove to a first down at the Illinois 4. On third and goal from the 2, freshman tailback Eddie George was hit by Arneson and the ball popped loose. The Illini's Derrick Rucker tried to pick up the fumble, but instead flipped it up in the air. Arneson caught it at the 4 and, after a block by Kevin Hardy on Ohio State's Greg Beatty, went the distance untouched for a 7-0 lead.

It was the longest fumble recovery in Big Ten and Illinois history, breaking the previous conference mark of 92 yards by Indiana's Dale Keneipp in 1978.

Iowa defeats Wisconsin

by Chuck Schoffner
AP sports writer

IOWA CITY, Iowa -- Jim Hartlieb threw a 4-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Dean with 55 seconds left, then hit Dean on a two-point conversion to give Iowa a 23-22 victory over Wisconsin on Saturday.

Carlos James preserved Iowa's second straight last-minute victory over the Badgers by blocking Rich Thompson's 53-yard field goal attempt as time expired. The Hawkeyes won 10-6 last year on a touchdown pass with 44 seconds left.

Iowa (2-4 overall, 1-1 Big Ten) avoided its worst start since 1978 and continued its mastery of the Badgers (3-2, 1-1), whose last victory over the Hawkeyes was in 1976. Wisconsin had upset Ohio State a week ago.

Hartlieb drove Iowa 80 yards in 13 plays for the winning points after Wisconsin had gone ahead 22-15 with 3:55 left on a 32-yard field by Thompson his third of the game.

Iowa converted three times on third down to keep the drive alive, including a 23-yard Hartlieb-to-Marvin Lampkin completion that moved the ball to the Wisconsin 3.

Three plays later, Hartlieb rolled to his right and at first couldn't find a receiver. Then he lofted the ball to the back right corner of the end zone, where Dean made a leaping catch.

Dean, who caught two earlier passes in the winning drive, then made a leaping catch in the back of the end zone for the two-point conversion.

Hartlieb finished 31 of 51 for 297 yards and two touchdowns. He was sacked 20 times in Iowa's first five games but was not sacked at all Saturday.

BG club soccer defeats OSU

by Kyle Goodwin
Special to the BG News

Soccer has gained great success this season at BGSU. Along with the Top-10 nationally ranked varsity, the club soccer team is winning big. Last weekend (Oct. 3-4), BG club soccer defeated a very skilled and determined host team, Ohio State, 2-1 to capture the championship of the '92 Buckeye Soccer Tournament.

BG jumped out to an early 1-0 lead at 15:00 on a breakaway goal by striker Damian Cairns. Kyle Goodwin sent the through-ball to Cairns, who drew the keeper out and chipped the ball into the empty net, earning the assist.

At 35:00, midfielder Chas Gannon made a great run down the right wing avoiding several defenders' fouls. Gannon's cross found striker Scott Vanek for a diving header. Vanek's attempt tinked off the post but Cairns was there to follow the shot with his second goal of the game to put BG ahead 2-0. Cairns' two goal effort increased his team-leading scoring to six goals.

In the second half, despite intense pressure and a quicker OSU midfield, BG played solid defense to hold on led by John Glessman, Jonathan Broadfoot, Ryan Stosak, Nick Rohner, Goodwin and freshman goalkeeper Brian Salco.

BG's next home games are Oct. 17 against Ohio State at 4 p.m. and Oct. 18 against Miami at 4 p.m.

Cleveland thrills Steelers

by Chuck Melvin
AP sports writer

CLEVELAND -- The Cleveland Browns called the ideal play at the ideal time, leaving Michael Jackson all alone 20 yards behind the secondary.

And that was the problem.

Jackson, however, atoned for dropping a potential touchdown pass in Cleveland's last game by catching this one, a 47-yarder in the fourth quarter that clinched the Browns' 17-9 win over the Pittsburgh Steelers on Sunday.

The Browns (2-3) sent the Steelers (3-2) to their 10th loss in their last 11 trips to Cleveland.

"I was so open, I was worried about whether or not I was going to catch the ball," Jackson said. "I was so open, I didn't know where I was on the field. I knew no one was around me. I was wondering whether to catch it with my body, catch it with my hands, catch it against my body. All that was going through my mind."

The Browns, leading 10-9, got Jackson open by sending Eric Metcalf across the middle against a Pittsburgh zone that was primed to stop him from doing what he had done against the Raiders a few weeks ago: score four touchdowns. Mike Tomczak added to the deception with a pump fake, freezing the secondary.

Jackson continued down the right side of the field unnoticed until Tomczak heaved the ball toward him. Rod Woodson, the closest cornerback, could only turn and hope.

"It wasn't a big blunder by any one person. They just found a big crack," Pittsburgh cornerback D.J. Johnson said. "It wasn't necessarily Rod's man. It was a perfect play for that defense. We came in here after the game and tried to figure out that particular play. Even then, after the game, we were confused as to who should have taken that man."

Because the Steelers had jumped offsides, Tomczak knew he had nothing to lose.

"I told myself, 'Don't over-throw it. Don't throw it into the Dawg Pound (the bleachers),' " Tomczak said.

Kevin Mack put Cleveland ahead for good 10-6 with a 1-yard run in the third quarter, capping a 90-yard drive. After Pittsburgh closed to 10-9 on Gary Anderson's third field goal, Jackson's catch widened Cleveland's lead to eight with 10:44 to play.

On the Steelers' ensuing possession, Pittsburgh coach Bill Cowher who began both his coaching and playing careers with the Browns went for it on fourth-and-1 at his 40. But Barry Foster, the league's leading rusher entering the game, was met hard at the line for no gain.

"I don't have any second thoughts about that call," Cowher said. "With nine minutes left, if we punt the ball, we still need two scores. We knew we had to get something that series offensively."

Hurricanes nip Penn St.

by Rick Warner
AP sports writer

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. -- Miami became the first team to intercept a Penn State pass this season. Now the Hurricanes could become the first team in the rankings again.

Darren Krein scored on a 28-yard interception return in the third quarter and Paul White picked off another pass with 64 seconds left Saturday to preserve No. 2 Miami's 17-14 victory over No. 7 Penn State.

The Hurricanes (5-0) extended the nation's longest winning streak to 23 and beat a Top 10 opponent for the second straight week. Along with last week's 19-16 victory over Florida State, the victory over Penn State (5-1) could boost Miami back to the No. 1 spot it held earlier this season.

Miami, helped by a rejuvenated running game, was leading 10-7 when Krein picked off a pass by John Sacca and returned it all the way with 14 seconds remaining in the third period. Sacca, who was pressured by Jessie Armstead, threw the ball right to Krein, who had a clear path to the end zone before a record crowd of 96,704 at Beaver Stadium.

It was the first interception thrown by a Penn State quarterback in 147 throws this season, including 99 by Sacca.

Penn State cut it to 17-14 on a 14-yard TD pass from Sacca to O.J. McDuffie with 6:17 left in the game and then got the ball back after stopping Miami with the aid of a poor call that negated a Hurricanes' first down.

But the Lions were forced to punt, and didn't get the ball back again until 1:38 was left. White stopped Penn State's last drive by picking off Sacca's pass from his own end zone, and Miami ran out the clock.

Miami, which had been averaging only 82 rushing yards per game, gained 138 on the ground against Penn State's tough defense. Donnell Bennett carried 15 times for a career-best 79 yards and one touchdown, and Larry Jones gained 69 yards on 17 carries.

The effective ground game made up for a poor performance by Miami quarterback Gino Torretta, who completed only 11 of 31 passes for 80 yards.

Sacca, whose brother Tony quarterbacked Penn State in last year's 26-20 loss to Miami, was 17 of 31 for 170 yards with two interceptions.

The loss snapped Penn State's 11-game winning streak and also ended a 14-game winning streak at home.

Penn State had a chance to score on its first possession, but Craig Fayak's 48-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Dexter Seigler.

Miami then marched 51 yards in nine plays and scored on Bennett's 10-yard run. Bennett rushed for 43 yards on seven carries during the drive three yards more than he had ever gained in an entire game.

Penn State responded with a 60-yard drive that consumed nearly nine minutes, but the Lions stalled at the Miami 2 and Fayak hooked his 20-yard field goal attempt to the left. Miami won the last two weeks when Arizona and Florida State were wide right on last-second field goal tries.

The Hurricanes made it 10-0 on Dane Prewitt's 26-yard field goal with 3:39 left in the half, capping a 79-yard, 14-play drive that took 5 minutes. Torretta kept the drive alive with a 15-yard pass to Coleman Bell on third and five from his 17.

Michigan crushes Spartans

The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Tyrone Wheatley ran for 172 yards and two touchdowns Saturday to lift No. 3 Michigan to a 35-10 victory over Michigan State in front of the largest regular season crowd in NCAA history.

The game drew 106,788 fans at Michigan Stadium, 533 more than saw Ohio State play Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1979.

Wheatley scored on runs of 10 and 23 yards, helping overcome a subpar performance by Elvis Grbac, who completed only 11 of 19 passes for 111 yards with two interceptions. It was Grbac's second start after returning from an ankle injury that kept him out two games.

The Wolverines (4-0-1 overall, 2-0 in the Big Ten) broke the game open with three touchdowns in the second quarter. Jesse Johnson had a 3-yard touchdown run, Derrick Alexander returned a punt 80 yards for a touchdown, and Burnie Legette had a 1-yard scoring run.
